

Where to eat in Dallas right now: 10 wow new restaurants for May

It's a grand time in Dallas' restaurant realm right now, with all sorts of openings and action, from a wide variety of operators: acclaimed local chefs, small personal concepts, and big names from L.A. and N.Y. There is truly something for everyone, from a vegetarian restaurant to a chicken tenders joint; from a California chef eatery to a California club spot.

For the latest edition of our Where to Eat column, here are 10 varied new restaurants to try in May.

Lions Den

Set to open on May 7, this Italian restaurant at the Stoneleigh — part of a multimillion-dollar transformation of the hotel — features a menu by chef Michael White, a veteran of New York's dining scene known for his pastas. Lions Den will serve some including garganelli with prosciutto & English peas, agnolotti with oxtail & leeks, mushroom risotto, bucatini with clams, and tagliatelle with ragu Bolognese. Entrees include cauliflower steak with pinenut sauce romesco; branzino with artichoke; and ribeye with rosemary potatoes.
